

LOOSENING THE LOCKDOWN – WRITING THE LANDSCAPE

Writing the Landscape is a short series of four online creative workshops introducing ways of bringing words to life. Working with professional writer and scriptwriter Bel Greenwood Writing the Landscape is an opportunity to explore, invent and share creative stories, anecdotes, poems, songs and dialogues.

This year the natural world around us has become more important to people. And creative writing can be a highly enjoyable way of recognising that, capturing the landscape, hearing birdsong, seeing trees and plants in a new light.

The four ZOOM workshops will be a combination of discussion and interactive exercises, and no matter if you live in the wilds of the Fens or only have a small garden or park to explore, Writing the Landscape will encourage everyone to find their voice with the aim of discovering an ongoing writing adventure.

Bel Greenwood

Bel lives in Norfolk and has a great interest in the landscape of East Anglia. She has taught creative writing with rural communities in Norfolk and Suffolk. Her work as Norfolk and Suffolk Broads Authority, Water, Marsh and Mills Creative Facilitator has led to creative film and writing projects for the Norfolk Heritage Festival and Ripples in the Water, Great Yarmouth.

To reserve a spot in the writing group please contact:

Colin Stevens, colin.stevens@cppmarketplace.co.uk

LINKS

Rural Writes: <https://wordsandwomennorwich.blogspot.com/p/rural-writes.html>