SANDRINGHAM

What are the opening times and how do you get to the Estate to leave tributes?

The Estate is open from dawn until dusk for visitors wishing to pay their respects however all areas will remain closed on Monday 19 September 2022 for Her Majesty The Queen's funeral.

A one-way system is in operation on the Estate. All traffic must approach the Estate via the A149 following temporary directional signage before travelling along Double Lodges Road, with free parking in the West Car Park. What form of floral tributes are acceptable?

Any form of floral tribute is acceptable. In the interests of sustainability, we ask visitors to only lay organic or compostable material. Removing the wrapping will aid the longevity of the flowers and will assist in subsequent composting which will start in the days following the date of the funeral and clearing of flowers daily thereafter.

Visitors are asked not to leave artefacts in any other areas of the Royal Parkland.

How long will floral tributes remain?

It is expected that the main floral tributes will be removed in the days following the funeral and then periodically removed daily thereafter.

Tributes will be monitored throughout and if floral tributes have deteriorated, they will be removed and taken for processing to prepare them for composting.

What will happen to the floral tributes afterwards?

Labels and cards will be separated from flowers and stored for members of the Royal Family to read. Once floral tributes are removed, they will be taken for processing to remove any remaining packaging, cards and labels and to separate plant material for composting. This organic composted material will be used within the Royal Gardens on shrubberies and landscaping projects across the Royal Parkland.
