Free event in March offers tips on reducing living costs

You're invited to an event in March town where you can find out how to reduce living costs and access additional financial support you might be entitled to.

The informal, friendly event is open to all. There'll be stands to wander and free refreshments.

Get tips on things like managing energy costs, and available grants, benefits and other support available.

Drop in any time between 10am and 1pm, Monday, March 17, at March Library, City Road, March, PE15 9LT.

The event is being offered by Fenland District Council and Cambridgeshire County Council.

Cllr Susan Wallwork, Fenland District Council's portfolio holder for communities, said: "We recognise that the cost of living continues to be a challenge, and this is a great opportunity to gather helpful tips for everyone.

"There will be support and guidance for those facing financial difficulties, along with practical advice for all households. Plus, details will be available around assistance that people may not be aware of. We hope to see as many people as possible there."

The March event follows similar events in Chatteris, Whittlesey and Wisbech at the end of last year.
